A lot of people are now blaming the FIFA development team on what’s going wrong in the game. One of the major reasons why FIFA 2K18 has received so much negative reviews are the limited number of modes compared to FIFA 17, including “My Club,” “My Career,” “The Journey” and “FUT Champions.” FIFA 2K18 also does not have the comprehensive license model that other sports games have. The developers are going through a rough patch. Valve has also received some negative reviews for the PC version of the game. The bugs included are Unreasonable difficulty level MyCareer In MyCareer mode, players are only limited to performing in the following modes, including: Match Simulation; Training; Practice; Friendly; Challenge; MyClub; MyClub Draft; MyClub There is no other mode available that players have not tried and tested yet. There are plenty of cases where players found flaws in the game which could have been avoided by waiting for a bug fix. The fact that the game has bugs that can be found within minutes of playing the game is an indication of how immature the development process of the game is. And now the FIFA development team is in a state of panic. It is not correct to say that the game developers are to blame for the current state of FIFA 2K18. What we can do?
